THE MOB NUMBERED 12,000

The Rioters Attack the Police and Are Beaten Back With Difficulty.

BILBAO, Spain, March 9 .- There was another anti-American riot here to-day, and it was of greater importance than the previous so-called patriotic disturbances caused by the action of the Congress of the United States in regard to Cuba.

About 12,000 people took part this afternoon in the popular demonstration. The excitement was started by a group of young men at a street corner, who began cheering every soldier passing by. Their conduct was soon imitated by other groups of people until every soldier seen was cheered by the crowds, and some musicians who, re-fused to repeat the national anthem were hustled, beaten and otherwise maltreated. The excitement increased, and riotous groups formed in the main streets, cheering for Spain and denouncing the United States. The authorities did everything possible to maintain order. Almost the entire police force was turned out as soon as the populace assumed a threatening aspect and the rioters were dispersed again and again. Eventually, however, the mob became so numer ous and excited that the police were almost helpless. After the first demonstrations of helpless. After the first demonstrations of sympathy with the army, the crowds had armed themselves with sticks and cudgels, and their numbers were so great that the police were swept aside and an immense throng gathered on the leading thorough-fares and marched towards the residence of the United States Consul, shouting, "Long live Spain!" "Down with the Yankees!" On their way to the Consul's residence they hurled stones through the windows of stores and private houses, overturned a number of vehicles, pulled several mounted policemen from their horses, and generally behaved in the most threatening manner. Stores dealing in American goods received the most attention from the mob, and the windows of the Consul's dwelling were badly shattered, although the police defended the building.

The mob then proceeded in the direction of the United States Consulate, evidently intending to stone that building as well. But the authorities had taken the precaution to send a strong force of police to guard that building, and another detachment of police, with drawn swords, was stationed across the streets leading to the Consulate. The mob haited, and then began pelting the police most vigorously with stones and pieces of brick.

The police, however, held their ground and a squad of the officers charged the rioters. The latter began by firing pistols at the policemen, two of whom were wounded. This caused the police to charge in a body and using their swords with good effect, the rioters were dispersed, yelling and hooting at the authorities.

WEYLER'S EDICT.

Offers of Amnesty Qualified by Many Limitations.

NEW YORK, March 9.-A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: Captain General Weyler has issued two highly important edicts, which are expected to bring out of the rebel ranks many persons who may be willing to avail themselves of his proffered pardon on the conditions named.

The insurgents are well aware that 18,000 troops have arrived as reinforcements dur-ing the last three weeks and that fact is counted upon to influence many of them. The proposed amnesty, however, is qualified by so many limitations that Cubans generally are disposed to doubt whether many rebels will surrender under its terms. The first edict applies only to the provinces of Pinar will surrender under its terms. The first edict applies only to the provinces of Pinar del Rio and Hayana, where the Government entertains the most sanguine hopes of being able to hold the coming elections.

The primary purpose of the first five articles of the edict seem to be to perfect the complete military occupation of all parts of those provinces, including such towns as have hitherto been more or less under the rebel influence, thus clearing the way for the coming elections by bringing all the country districts under direct government protection. These five articles place under the bandit laws of Spain all insurgent bands still operating in the Western provinces. The civil guards, who are to be mobilized there, are the special foes of that class of outlaws. As Solomayer, son of the commander-in-chief of the Chilina army is now reported to be in command of the rebel operations in Pinar del Rio, his forces are included in that category of law breakers.

Articles 6 to 8 provide for the confiscation of the property of all rebels who fail to avail themselves of the offered amnesty within a period of fifteen days, and specify the limitations under which pardon may be granted. Persons guilty of overt abts, such as robbing, looting or burning property are not eligible and if they have been connected with bands engaged in such work they must purge themselves of individual guilt.

Cleveland's Way of Humiliating His Subordinates.

THEIR BOOMS FROSTBITTEN.

Gorman Says the President Does Not Mean to Aid Anyone in Getting the Nemination.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March S.-The reported rupture between President Cleveland and Secretary Olney continues to be a fruit-ful theme among public men. It is a rich morsel to the anti-Administration wing, which is by far the largest Democratic ele ment in Washington. The Senators and Representatives of this branch are laughing in their sleeves, and saying that they knew Mr. Cleveland would not miss the opportunity to humiliate Olney, just as others have been humiliated.

But there is a careful avoidance of publi expressions, which would be sure to be followed by the resentment which the Adm tration always visits on its critics. One of the local papers prints an interview with a Democratic Senator, believed to be Gorman, in which this rupture with Olney was predicted some days ago. At that time the Senator was discussing the Presidential outlook and was asked it Mr. Cleveland's mantle would fall on the shoulders of Olney of Carlisle.

"It will fall on nobody's shoulders," said the Senator, "Mr. Cleveland does not propose to let any one else have the nomination through his aid, if he is not able to get it himself. It is worth noticing, toe, that as soon as a member of the Cabinet begins to develop strength he is conspicuously humilated by the President. Carlisle has been publicly taken to task more than once, and now that Olney has had a boom started for him in Massachusetts you will see that the President will find some way to rebuke or annoy him and teach him that he is, after all, a mere subordinate in the Administration."

Three men are dead and one more

Three men are dead and one more is probably dying. Fifty more are more or less severely, but not fatally, injured.

This is the net result of the collision of the St. Louis & Kirkwood Electric Line Sunday evening.

General Manager Houseman states positively that the entire blame rests with J. H. Alken, the motorman of the east-bound car, who was so seriously injured that he died a few hours later.

Aiken had been in the employ of the road but a few days, of course, but previous to his employment by Mr. Houseman he had been with the Lindell Road for more than two years and was regarded as a safe and intelligent man. So far as is known he was not addicted to strong drink and was chosen very largely because of his reputation for sobriety.

In referring to the matter Mr. Houseman said: "I had great condence in Alken, but I cannot help saying that I regard him

Strange to say, neither car left the track and it is due to this, perhaps, that so few crosns were fatally injured. Had the carsen derailed so as to cause them to roll own the embankment, the fatalities must are been very great.

As it was, the west-bound car was driven ack at least 100 feet by the force of the low. It remained on the rails, however, in pite of the fact that every window in it as anattered and all the seats were literally torn from their fastenings. Both urs looked as if an effort had been made blow them up with dynamite. The platroms were smashed in and even portions of the roots had been ripped up as if done by and.

The passengers were thrown violently forward when the cars met, and very few an either car escaped without some slight injury. Those in the aisles were thrown forward and fell in a confused miss against the front ends of the cars, while those in the seats went headlong over those in front of them. Women, men and children were heaped together in confusion, while those who were badly injured were, in most instances, crushed down and trampled upon by the more fortunate ones who strove frantically to extricate themselves from the cars.

In many instances they succeeded in crawling through the windows and in a few minutes after the accident the right of way along the road was thickly scattered for nearly 200 yards with wounded people.

Some of those who were so fortunate as to escape with slight bruises set to work almost at once to assist those who were injured and others started at once for Kirkwood to give the alarm.

Before they could reach the latter place, however, the conductor of the west-bound car brought his telephone into use and notified General Manager Houseman at Brentwood of what had occurred.

wood of what had occurred.

The latter had already suspected that something of an unusual mature had occurred, for the engineer at the power-house noticed at exactly 4:30 o'clock that the voltage ran up nearly 600 without any apparent cause. This, it is now believed, was caused by the sudden reversal of the currents on both care, and it is by this that the precise time of the accident is known.

parent cause. This, it is now believed, was caused by the sudden reversal of the currents on both cars, and it is by this that the precise time of the accident is known.

As soon as Mr. Houseman learned of the accident and was told that a number of people had been severely injured, he sent a relief car to the scene at once, and telephoned Dr. Mudd. asking for his services. Physicians were also summoned from Kirkwood, and the following went to the scene of the disaster as soon as possible: Drs. Elchler, Pittman, Scott, C. J. Dunnavant and Douglass of the Keeley Institute, which is at Kirkwood.

Dr. Pittman, who is also President of the road, was one of the first to arrive at the wreck, and with such assistance as he had he set to work at once to nelieve the suffering of those who were most badly injured. It was found that four men were probably istalily injured. They were J. A. Jones, a lerk in the Auditor's office of the M. K. & raliroad; Richard Lanigan, a life insurce man, who was formerly in the employ the Post-Dispatch as a reporter, and tormen Sam Smith and J. H. Alken.

Jones was also terribly injured. Both ankles were broken and his feet almost crushad by being caught between the two cars, There was evidence in his case of internal bruises and he complained of pains in his head and chest. Among those who were badly injured.

Smith probably has the best chance of recovery. He, too, was injured internally and had his leg broken, but Monday he was resting quietly, and it was thought that he might with good care recover. Smith has been in the employ of street railrond companies for at least twelve years, and was regarded as a safe man. No blame is attached to him by the officials of the road, who say that he was living up to the rules in running as he did.

Albert Rodman, who is in the employ of Rice, Stix & Co., was also very severely bruised about the body, but his injuries are stored about the body, but his injuries are so considered as serious enough to call for any alarm on the part of his friends.

Besides those who were so seriously injuried ab least forty persons, it is estimated by the officials of the company, were hurs, Bel counting those who received slight bruises and cuts and who made no report of the matter to the doctors or to the officers of the company.

Some of them were brought at once to the Lindell power-house at Chouteau and Jefferson avenues, and from there were sent direct to their homes.

An many as possible were placed in the inn at Kirkwood, where they were given as good care as possible, while some others were taken to the house of Mrs. J. J. Reed of Reed Hill, and cared for. Among them are Mrs. W. F. Spencer of Webster Groves and Robert Williams of the same place.

Mrs. Spencer, it is believed, will recover, but her right leg and arm are both broken and sing the is suffering from the effects of the nervous shock. Williams escaped more fortunately, being cut about the neck. His condition is not serious. His injuries were inflicted by his being dragged through the giass window of the car in which he was when the accident occurred.

J. A. Jones was a clerk in the auditor of claims office of the M. K. & T. R. R. and had been employed there about two years. He was I years old, single and lived at 256 St. Vincent avenue, He was a member of the Compton Hill Council, Royal Arcanum.

made that the road did not have a train dispatcher to direct the movements of trains, Mr. Houseman says that that is true and adds that in his opinion none was needed.

"The rules of the road relating to the movement of cars," he said, "were very plain and if they had been obeyed no accident would have occurred. I personally directed the running of the road Sunday and everything seemed to be moving smoothly. I told the motormen plainly not to allow anyone to get in the way on the front platform and warned them particularly to follow rigidly their printed instructions.

"Alken failed to do as he was told, and that was the cause of it all."

Mr. Houseman denied also that it was the custom to sun the cars at a high rate of speed.

"It was not necessary at any time," he added, "for the reason that our schedule was slow. We allowed forty-six minutes in which to make ten miles, and this was so slow that it caused a good deal of complaint on the part of the patrons of the road. Some little delay was caused sometimes by the trolley pole jumping from the wire, owing to a defect in the latter, and for that reason I had two conductors on each car."

Mrs. Alken, wife of the dead motorman, came out at 10 o'clock. She went home Sunday night late to attend to her children. She was not aware of the death of her husband until she was taken to his bedside. Her grief was touching, as she broke down and had to be helped downstairs.

Young Ryan was removed to the city in an improvised ambulance. His leg was broken and he was otherwise injured. Much difficulty was found in getting the cot on which he was lying down from the third floor and his sufferings were great.

Lanigan's wife and brother came out last night and stayed by turn all night. His agony even in his unconsciousness was terrible. He had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs.

Many of the ladies of Kirkwood spent the night at the inn and rendered every possible assistance. They brought bed clothing and pillows in profusion.

George W. Taussig, the attorney, was at the inn doing everything possible to relieve the wounded. He is a stockholder and attorney of the road. He refused to state on whom the blame for the accident reated and showed a disposition to say as little as possible about it.

Sudden Death of Rozel Weissinger of Kentucky.

MONEY DEMOCRAT

He Was the Leader of the Anti-Silver Forces in the Bitter Senaterial Contest.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 9.—Senator Rosel Weissinger of Louisville, one of the most prominent Dmocratic sound money embers of the Legislature, died at 11:40 this morning. He had been ill only a few days, his trouble being pneumonia. The disease quickly developed and became dangerous early in the morning. Senator Weis-gerous early in the morning. Senator weissinger has been all along the most unflagging opponent Blackburn has had among the Democrats in the Legislature.

Senator Weissinger has played a more important part in the Senatorial contest than any other member of the General Assembly. To him is due the arrangement of a pair with Senator Stege, the Republican member from Louisville, which prevented the Republicans from having a majority on joint ballot on the death of Mr. Wilson a few weeks ago. But for this Dr. Hunter would now be United States Senator.

Weissinger has constituted the backbone of the Democratic opposition to Senator Blackburn. But for Weissinger the election of Blackburn would have occurred weeks ago and neither the Republicans nor Democrats will deny this. The controlling influence he exercised over the contest was emphasized Saturday, when, but for his release of Senator Chambers (Rep.) from a pair in order that the latter might vote for Carlisle, Blackburn would no doubt have carried the day.

Carlisle, Blackburn would no doubt have carried the day.

The only immediate effect of Weissinger's death may be correctly stated to be simply one less vote for Carlisle. It is admitted that Weissinger would never have voted for a Republican or for Blackburn. Great pressure was brought to bear upon the Democratic opposition to Blackburn this morning. It comes from Louisville and other induential points in the State and has been directed to Carroll and his associates, who, except on the first ballot Saturday, have steadfastly refused to join the Blackburn forces.

except on the first ballot Saturday, have steadfastly refused to join the Blackburn forces.

Mr. Carroll spent Saturday night and Sunday in Louisville, his home, and had conferences with leading Demodrats of that city. This morning telegrams were received from these sources, indicating a desire to secure the election of a Democratic Senator if it is possible to do so, and leaving the inference that strong pressure to this end had been brought to bear upon Mr. Carroll.

Last night Mr. Weissinger rested fairly well and his friends hoped he was some better. This morning, however, it was plain that he was worse. When the doctor entered the room of the sick man about 70 o'clock he was found gasping for sbreath and black in the face.

A timely application of restoratives staved off the end for a few hours. All morning the corridor of the Capitel Hotel leading to room 34, in which the dying man lay moaning and muttering in his delirium, was filled with friends anxious to hear of his condition. There were many eyes filled with tears to be seen when it was given out that there was no hope. The many ways in which Mr. Weissinger had slways defended and fought for what he thought to be right had begotten for him the admiration of even those who differed from him on political questions.

Everything concerning the situation this morning seemed chaotic, All day yesterday and last night until a late hour, the friends of Blackburn and of Boyle held conferences in an endeavor to perfect plans to be pursued in to-day's joint assembly. A delegation of ten prominent Republicans from Fopulist Proer's district came on to urge Mr. Foor to you against Senator Blackburn. They were vote will be united upon him.

Excitement was at fever heat long before the hour of 12 arrived. Everybody had heard of the exciting events of Saturday's session, and the rush to get in the lobbies and galleries began early. The crush was simply frightful. The ladies did not seem at all frightened and were as anxious to get in as were the men.

Not only was standing room in the lobbies and galleries at a premium, but as many as had influence with members crowded in on the floor of the House. Besides these a long line of the disappointed who came too late to get in at all stood out in the corridors and waited to catch the latest news from those on the inside. The messenger boys were only able of get out to the telegraph offices with press dispatches at the risk of losing their clothes, and the old-timers who had been present when many former Senatorial fights were decided, declared this to be by far the most exciting of all.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock and on motion of Senator Bronston immediately adjourned until one minute of 12 o'clock on account of the serious illness of Senator Weissinger.

journed until one minute of 12 o'clock on account of the serious illness of Senator Weissinger.

When the House met a great crowd was on hand. The Speaker had given an order to the Sergeant-at-Arms to admit nobody except these entitled to the floor of the House and the crowd which had expected to fill the galleries and lobbies was kept out. This precaution was taken by the Speaker on account of the intense interest and excitement over the vote on the Duniap-Kauffman contest. The excitement over political questions had been abated to an extent, however, by the news that Senator Weissinger was dying at his room in the Capitol Hotel, Business was checked shortly after the opening by the Speaker, who insisted that the Sergeant-at-Arms was admitting men not entitled to the floor. He said that complaint had been made that men had been intimidated on the floor Saturday when the joint ballots were being taken.

Violett said the Speaker was mistaken. Intimidation had been attempted, but the attempts were not successful.

Carroll (Dem.) moved that the House adjourn till 12 o'clock on account of the expected death of Senator Weissinger.

Burnham (Rep.) objected, holding that it would be time enough to adjourn when the news of the death of Mr. Weissinger was received. He asked for time until a conference of Republicans could be held.

A vote was taken after much freated arround the taken at the server was received. He asked for time until a conference of Republicans could be held.

A vote was taken after much freated arround the sale of th others. The Democrats insisted that out of respect to the dying man such a recess should be taken. A call of the roll on the motion was ordered.

Spaulding of Marion said that out of decency the motion to take a recess should be carried unanimously and he asked that it should be so ordered. He was overruied, however, and the roll was ordered called. The significance of this was that the Republicans were determined to take up the contested case of Dunlap vs. Kauffman and bring it to a vote.

The significance of this was that the Republicans were determined to take up the contested case of Dunlap vs. Kauffman and bring it to a vote.

They voted solidly against a recess, while the Democrats voted aye.

Mr. Violett, when his name was called, said, with tears in his eyes, that he hoped the House would rise above a partisan spirit and take a recess in honor of that noble and pure spirit new in the struggles of death. "I vote aye. Mr. Speaker," said he.

Mr. Howard (Rep.) arose before the vote was announced and said that in politics he was a partisan, but in this he had to rise above politics. It is now twenty minutes to 12 o'clock, he said, and nothing could be done anyway in regard to the contested election case. He voted for a recess. Carroll (Dem.) his voice trembling with emotion, said: "I will assure the gentleman of the opposition that I will vote for the Republican nominee if there is the slightest prospect of the election of a Democrat, and I ask that the recess be granted."

Lyons (Rep.) on this assurance voted with the Democrats. This closed the remarkable debate, the apparent unfeelingness of which only shows the great strain brought about by the crisis in the Senatorial contest.

The incident, with its attendant display of partisanship, was ended and soon forgotten when at 11:40 o'clock the death of Senator Weissinger was announced.

The motion to take a recess until one minute of 18 o'clock the death of Senator Weissinger was announced.

The motion to take a recess until one minute of 18 o'clock was then put and carried by a unanimous vote.

Just before the noon hour the Senate filed into the House chamber. The ism outside and in the corridors was terrific.

Mr. Carroll said that it had been mutually agreed by Democrats and Republicans to make no attempt to elect a United States Senator. He moved that the first was acceded to and on the name of Senator Bennett (Rep.) being called, he voted for Blackburn. It Boyle, It Pettit, I. A quorum not having voted there was no alection. In one of his pockets was found $6.20. The purse was missing.

When Walsh was on the point of arresting Schneider the latter gave a signal to a young woman who was with him and she started to walk away, but Walsh hailed her and she was also taken into custody.

That was Madge.

About 6 o'clock two detectives visited Schneider's room at $11 Market street and arrested James Lee and a young woman who were found in possession.

The woman was Little Eva.

By these arrests the police believe that they will be able to rid the city of four very undesirable residents.

The quartet claim to hall from St. Paul, Minn., but their stories, when questioned in detail, differ widely.

Schneider says that he came here three weeks ago at the solicitation of Lee, who had arrived a week before. He says he is a paper hanger, but that he has not worked any since coming to St. Louis.

Lee says that he is a railroad brakeman and that Schneider is a bookkeeper.

Schneider says that he is a paperhanger and that Lee is a stenographer.

The young women say nething, except that they have been making the living for their husbands. Both claim to be married, but they left their licenses up in dear old St. Paul.

Little Eva Lee is a comely young woman, with a whole hatful of fluffy light hair and a peaches-and-cream complexion that many of her more fortunate sisters who never saw the inside of the hold-over might envy.

CAN'T GET THE PRISONER OUT

Hundreds of Attempted Solutions Bent to Prof. Kunkel and Not One

Is Correct. The Sousa puzzle, which was published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch is driving the town mad. Everybody seems to be trying to olve it, but so far no correct solution has been returned. Prof. Charles Kunkel, to whom Sous gave the puzzle last September, and who has been working on it ever since unavail-ingly, is in receipt of great stacks of letters with alleged keys to the puzzle and so is the Post-Dispatch, but not one of them is the right. They all get the prisoner out at cell cell or let him retrace his steps in violatio or the califf's orders. Most of the wise ones put the prisoner i cell 2, then have him go into cell 1, or else thence back into 1, whence he could be led out easily by following the rules. One ingenious individual put him in the doorway between cells I and 2 and started him out, considering him to have been in 3, but still arguing that he started from I. This doesn't go. If the puzzle is to be done at all it must start the prisoner in cell I and bring him out at cell 64, without missing any of the cells and without going into any of them more than once. The missing any of the cells and without soing into any of them more than once. The puzzle makers say it can be done but it seems a hard job. Prof. Kunkel, who is something of a chess player, down't believe it possible. He was willing to admit, however, that he might be mistaken and so he gave it to the Post-Dispatch to see if there was anyone in St. Louis or the surrounding country who could do it.

The letters came from everywhere. Neighboring States contributed. Iows, Illinois and Arkansas had guessers, as well as Missouri and the city proper. The end is not yet, either. Before the week is finished he is liable to be swamped with mail. He says he can stand it, however, if they will only send him the correct solution.

Where one person has sent a communication on the subject a hundred have been working away in silence. To tell the truth, the town to-day is on a sort of secret strike. The Mayor is neglecting his gubernaterial boom in a wild effort to get the visitor out of jail. ON TWO WHEELS AND FOUR

There is no way of telling how many wheelmen visited the park, as they don't stand still long enough to be counted, but it must have been up in the thousands. They came singly and in twos, threes and parties. Whole clubs were out in uniform. The women, clad, some in bloomers, some in skirts, were no small minority, and they seemed just as independent and self-reliant as their sterner escorts.

One striking feature, particularly noticeable to an individual who was not educated to the delights of the wheel, was the terrible sameness about the conversation of all these bicyclists. As they whirled past the only words to be heard were those which dealt with the technical construction of this wheel or that, the respective merits of the different makes, the success of various riders, the proper kind of bleyele costume and other kindred topics. It was all about bicycles.

Spain might have declared war on the other kindred topics. It was all about bicycles.

Spain might have declared war on the United States, England fallen off the map, the President dropped dead or some other momentous event occurred, it would never have changed the course of the conversation of these enthusiasts. Even love didn't stand any show, and when this stage is reached among the young people, the limit is being pressed. When young women think more about the selection of handle bars than they do of husbands, it's getting to be a pretty serious matter—that is, it seems so to a man who sever rode a wheel in his life and doesn't intend to.

to a man who sever rode a wheel in his life and doesn't intend to.

Forest Park was not the only pleasure ound that the people took advantage of. The beauties of landscape gardening as exemplified in Tower Grove Park were viewed by thousands with the same delight as were the wilder scenes in the larger breathing space.

All during the afternoon there was a congress of babies in Lafayette Park, the gem of them all, on the South Side. The pretty nurse maids from the fine residences crowding it about, trundled their pink and white charges around in the warming sun, and while they gossiped the babies crowed and made faces at the sun as happy as a kitten by the kitchen fire. made faces at the sun as many a by the kitchen fire.

The benches in Carr Park were fuller than they have been since the autumn days of last year. Here the poor people came and sat in the sun, giving life to the little ones, who are cooped up in the tenements thereabouts.

are cooped up in the tenements thereabouts. Sick persons all bundled up were there with their pale, thred-looking faces, showing the need of light and pure air. But the scene was by no means a sad one. There was pienty of health and merriment for the eye to feast on and make one glad simply to exist on such a girlious day.

A day like Sunday teeps the doctors' bills down and make the St. Louisan thank the good men wo in the city's past had the foreight to preserve these little breathing aces in the wilderness of brick and mot ar where they eye may rest on the green trass and the ear listen to the music of the wind-waved trees.

There are now fifteen widows and twenty-seven minors drawing pensions from this fund.

The city's contribution to this fund is one-half per cent of all revenue derived from licenses. This amounts to about $7,000 annually. The disbursements annually reach $12,000. The fund is materially increased from the salaries of the members of the Fire Department. Each member contributes 1 per cent of his salary to the fund and this brings in about $5,000 per year. The fund is still further increased by the interest on the money on hand.

He requested that A. E. Brown, Morgan Park, Ill., Mrs. L. E. Brown said she was his wife and was leading a life of shame. Mr. Chidsey, he said, was her dear and particular friend. Brown married his wife, Daisy, in Omaha, Neb., about ten years ago. Over a year ago they came to St. Louis.

Mrs. Brown formed the acquaintance of Giadys Carter. From that moment Brown dates his wife's downfall. He says Giadys introduced Mrs. Brown to two salesmen in the employ of May, Stern & Co., and they were instrumental in leading her astray.

Sunday night's performance at the Germania was a deviation from the usual programme. A local farce, entitled "A Trip Through St. Louis in Eighty Hours," was put on and scored an immense hit. The action was laid in a down-town saloon, the race track, a boudoir "In de sleele," the Exposition, the Winter Garden and the ball-room at the Liederkranz.

The scenes wore put on with remarkable fidelity. The treatment was broad and the lines witty. An immense audience enjoyed the performance so well that it will be repeated at an early date.

Robert Wiggins, Old Book-Seller, Attempts to Take His Life.

Robert Wiggins, the old book-seller, form-erly on Ninth, between Olive and Pine streets, attempted suicide in his room at 913 North Third street at 8:30 o'clock Sunday night. Wiggins had been drinking pretty freely day night. Wiggins had been drinking pretty freely all day and was thoroughly despondent. Everything seemed to turn against him of late. Business was bad and age and ill-health made life a burden to him. As the best and quickest means of ending his troubles, Wiggins tried suicide. He tied a string around his neck and hanged himself, but the string broke. This disgusted the old fellow and he walked to the Dispensary to be treated for alcoholism.

Being on the verge of delirium tremems, he was sent to the City Hospital.

At neither the Dispensary nor the hospital did Wiggins say anything, about trying to commit suicide.

Wiggins is one of the most familiar figures in book circles about town. For more than twenty-five years he has traded in rare and secondhand volumes. Years ago he had an old place down near the Levee, which was frequented by all the bookworms and scholars in the city.

NO CONDUIT MONOPOLY.

Councilman Ferriss called attention t the weakest point in the wire conduit bill when he asked what provision was made to accommodate new companies that may need conduit space.

The bill is faulty in this respect. If each company requiring conduit space for wires in the future must seek a franchise from the Municipal Assembly a good foundation has been laid for monopoly and for boodling and lobbying. #### POPULAR CONCERTS IN ST. LOUIS.

When the Exposition Sunday popular concerts were started there were grave doubts of success. But the large audiences at the Exposition Music Hall and the Germania Theater yesterday proved conclusively that popular concerts of the right kind can be made successful in St.

FIRE INSURANCE IN MISSOURL.

The report of Supt. Waddill of the State Insurance Department proves beyond doubt what the Post-Dispatch showed in June last, that the insurance companie have not been giving Missouri insurers "a fair deal." At that time, on ac the heavy advance in rates made by the local insurance trust, insurers turned to outside insurance companies for relief to a greater extent than they had done before. These outside companies are now carrying $256,000,000 in Missouri risks, uri companies only carry a

The report also shows that the losses paid in 1895 were over $1,000,000 less than in 1894, which seems to prove that property in Missouri has almost doubled in value as a fire risk. The average premium charged has fallen a little since minum charged has fallen a little since

THE NEW PARTY IS HERE.

Further speculation as to what the "new party" will be unnecessary. The action of the Republicans and "sound money Democrata" in the Kentucky Legislature reveals clearly what the comof elements is to be that wil constitute the new party. At the polls, where the voting is by secret ballot, it was not difficult to hide the fact that the Republicans and "sound money Demorate" were working together for a con on purpose. In the Legislature, when the roll is called and the voting is in the open, the fact cannot be conceale and the alliance is acknowledged.

Wall Street's primary object now is to get control of the United States Senate. It has the President. It has the House of Representatives. In order to obtain absolute control of the Federal Govern ment, it only needs to capture the Senate To effect this capture it will everywhere use its instruments, the Republican party and the "sound money Democrats." It will conceal as long as possible the fact that it controls these two elements in politics which pretend to be opposed. When a crisis comes, however—as in Kentucky on Saturday-it throws off the mask and the "new party" is disclosed. The international gold combine know no politics. It is like Jay Gould, who said he was a Democrat in Democrati counties and a Republican in Repub lican counties, but always for Jay Gould It uses party names and labels and shibboleths when they serve its pur-

Here was a railfoad on which ne limit of speed was placed by law or the rules of the managers. Being a single track, on which cars were to run both ways at high speed, an expert train dispatcher switches properly manned, and all the appliances of a regular steam railway were indispensable to safety. The failure to provide an experienced train dispatch er leaves the company without defense against the suits which will be brought for damages. One death has already occurred, other victims are almost sure to die, and a large number of people have received frightful injuries. All this as the result of a false economy, probably due to the fact that electric railways in the country are largely an experiment. The public however, ought not to be compelled to pay for the experience of railway pro

' Being one of those citizens who favor the ed moderate occupation or franchise tax on the street railways and a student of law, I have read with much interest the notice in this morning's paper of the argu-ments made by Mr. Finkelnburg and Mr. Lehman before the Council against that

They seem to overlook the modern decisions. So far as the effect of the alleged contracts between the companies and the city is concerned, it is enough to say that the municipality could not bargain away its right to tax nor can the Lagislature be deemed to do so except by express and unmistakable terms. This is so elementary a principle of law that the assertion of a contrary doctrine by Mr. Finkelnburg seems strange.

that as a tax it was not opposed to the constitutional provision requiring uniform taxation of property; that not being a license fee or charge, the question of its reasonableness with a view to inspection purposes out no figure, and that the court was fortified in its position by the decision of the St. Louis va. Green, '6 Mo. App. 591.

A similar decision placed on the same grounds was rendered some years age by the Supreme Court of Maryland in the case of State vs. Phila. W. & B. Raliroad Co., and is reported in 45 Maryland reports, page 361.

It is to be regretted that the Big Four do not exhibit the same moderation and consideration for the public welfare shown by the People's Railway Company and the Southern Railway Company, by cheerfully accepting the proposed tax. STUDENT. St. Louis, March 7.

To the Editor of The Pest-Dispatch.

I see quite a discussion going on as to the removal of the Union Market and rebuilding elsewhere. Being a citizen of North St. Louis, I, with many others, believe that a change should be made right away.

In selling the present site enough can be realized therefrom to buy another piece of ground and about complete the necessary buildings thereon.

The lot to be selected should undoubtedly be centrally located, and as Grand avenue has become the center of the resident pertion of the city, I should say, as has been suggested, that a piece of ground situated somewhere between Laclede and Choutsay avenue, convenient to street and steam cars, should be selected. The vacant lot lying opposite the termination of Forest Park boulevard would be very appropriate, where plenty of space could be obtained to could be erected. This would virtus away with the necessity of North and St. Louis markets, because we comeet on common ground equidistant all parts of the city.

We hope and trust the Municipal Abiy will select some place that will be tral and convenient for everybody would suggest that we go slow and be ful to select a spot that will suit for cime to come.

BOXING SHOULD BE PROTECTED

ENGLISH SPORTING LEAGUE.

It Beat 113 Candidates for Parliament Last Year, Because Their Views en Sperting Were Not Approved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 2.—John L. Sullivan and "Parson" Davies are preparing to head a movement to place pugilism on a paying basis again. Sullivan believes aporting men should organize and refuse to cast their ballots for legislators or Congressmen who do not agree to let prize-lighters so upmolesied.

hters go unmolested. 'Over in England last year the Sporting League beat 113 candidates for Parliament because their views on sporting did not because their views on sporting did not satisfy the League," said Sullivan. "We want to ask candidates for the Legislature or for Congress or for the Senate what they think of boxing, horse racing or any kind of sport, and if their views coincide with ours we will vote for them. But if they don't we'll beat them. People have got a bad view of boxing. If a horse gets killed or a jockey, racing goes on just the same, but if two men box and one gets killed, a lot of ministers get up and call it an outrage. That ain't fair. Boxing ain't brutal and we're going to try to show that it is just as legitimate as any other sporting proclivity. If a man wants to go to church let him; if he wants to go to a fight he's got a right to. We want to educate and tone up the people to understand boxing. Of course, if a man don't want to see boxing he don't have to, but he's got no business to interfere with those who do. Take a minister. His 'graft' is to tell how to get to heaven. Let him stick to that. What business has he got to interfere with legitimate sport?"

William Buckner, trainer of the Coburn boys, called at the Post-Dispatch office this morning and issued the following open challenge:

"Understanding that there are a number of members of a certain cycling club in this city who doubt the ability of the Coburn boys as road riders, these boys, with John A. Becherer, better known as "Jack Coburn" Becherer, hereby announce their willingness to ride any six members of any club in the city for a distance of from five to fifteen miles for money, marbles or chalk. A road race is wanted and not a hill-climbing centest, so this will bar the De Soto course. Race to come off by April 16. Answers to this challenge should be addressed to Trainer Buckner, in care of the sporting department of the Post-Dispatch."

Further entries for the styles were out trying their dogs Saturday. Great sport is promised at the meet.

The demand for simplicity in everything pertaining to cycle construction has established the single tube tire in popular favor. The practical utility of this method of construction has been so clearly emphasized by the speed, resiliency and great strength obtained, combined with the ease of repair in case of puncture, that the lesser manufacturers are hastening to follow the lead of the more progressive ones and adopt the same principle for those to be used on their own wheels, furnishing single tubes only when specially ordered.

A short ride may be, but in nine cases out of ten it has just the opposite from the desired effect. OREGON SHORT LINE CO.

Reorganization Plan Agreed To by Contending Interests.

NEW YORK, March 9.- The plan for rerganization of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern Railway Co., which has been agreed to by all the contending interests will be officially issued to-morrow. It calls for foreclosure and a new company to be known as the Oregon Short Line Railroad Co. It preserves the entire system and also control of the block of Oregon Railway and Navigation stock, which secured the $13,00,000 collateral trust bonds. The new Short Line company will pay the assessment upon the navigation stock. There are 1,489 miles in the Short Line system and prior liens of $21,755,000 upon about 1,180 miles will remain undisturbed, but the total indebtedness will be only about $25,000 per mile. The annual fixed charges of the new company will be $1,853,270, as compared with $2,788,575 for the old company.

This reduction in charges is accomplished by converting one-half the present $10,894,000 consolidated fives into five non-cumulative "A" income bonds, likewise one-half the $3,476,000 Utah Southern general and extension 7 per cent mortgages. The other half gets new 5 per cent bonds are converted into non-cumulative "B" bonds to receive interest if earned 3 per cent for three years and 4 per cent thereafter.

with old rags and cotton. The barrel was in the rear of 4892 Indiana avenue, and aroused the curlosity of J. A. Nursel residing on Prairie avenue when he went to the rear of his house to dump ashes.

He broke the head of the barrel, and saw the mulliated corpse of the old man almost covered by the cotton. It was entirely nude, and was frightfully mutilated. The head and trunk gave every evidence of foul play, the skull showing several deep wounds. On the left forearm were tatooed five spots close together. There was nothing elss to give any glew to the man's identity.

After the severed pieces of the body had been lifted from the barrel, the body of the baby was found. It was nude save for a thin flannel shirt, and there were two marks on the side of the head, apparently made with a blunt instrument.

On the discovery of the identity of a woman, as yet unknown to the police, depends the possible solution of the mystery.

Early yesterday merning the office in Ralston's Hyde Park Morgue was rung up on the telephone, and a woman, who decilined to give either her name or address, asked if the body of a man had been found in Hyde Park. The office attendant replied in the negative, and then questioned the woman, but he falled to get any information of a decided character, although she told him she was looking for a man who was missing. She finally gave his description in minute detail. She told the clerk that he would certainly learn more about the case later on.

Four hours later the barrel, with its ghastly contents, was discovered.

Fake Spook Medium Exposed by George Walters' Plucky Wife,

WAS WRECKING A HOME.

Mrs. Roberts Was Making a Fool of Walters and His Wife Tore Off the Mask.

There was a warm time Sunday night at 55 California avenue, the residence of corge Walters, and spiritualism received Another set-back.

Another "materializing medium" received a pusch in the face that sent her recling, and it was only by the strongest efforts that a riot was prevented among the persons who witnessed the exposure.

Mrs. Margaret J. Roberts of Ellendale, St. Louis County, was the medium.

About a year ago George Walters submitted to an operation for appendicitis, which left him in such an exhausted condition that he never fully recovered. About a month after the operation was performed, at the Marion-Bims Hospital, he became acquainted with a janitor named Mahan, who is a spiritualist.

Through Mahan Mr. Walters became acquainted with Mrs. Roberts, and she at once set about the task of making a spiritualist out of him.

She succeeded admirably.

Mrs. Roberts convinced him that communication with the spirits of the dear departed, of whatever condition or clime, would be a good thing, because they would be able to furnish him medicine that would discount anything on the market.

The medicine "materialized" through the medium of Mrs. Roberts, and Walters accepted it as a "manifestation" of good.

Mrs. Walters, a determined little woman with a few ideas of her own, viewed these

(The Fake Medium.) ceedings askance. She observed that her shand would become duil and listless after taking of these spiritual draughts, and ame convinced that Mrs. Roberts was a ud, and determined to prove it. fter every other plan had falled to works. Walters pretended to become a conto to spiritualism and was accorded at in the choice circle which assembled cregular intervals to witness the mighty mysterious workings of unseen powat Mrs. Roberts' seances.

Last Friday morning Mrs. Walters in-

When the party assembled and noses were counted five ladies and eleven gentlemen were found to be present, including Mr. and Mrs. Walters.

By and by Mrs. Roberts appeared, accompanied by her son, J. C. Jackman, a song and dance artist, whose stage name is Clements. Of late, until Sunday night, young Jackman was engaged in the task of "managing" his mother. He is an ardent believer in spiritualism.

So he says.

A curtain was stretched across one corner up at the Fifth District Police States, charged with obtaining money under false pretents.

Mrs. Walters was seen at her residence Monday morning by a Post-Dispatch reporter. She had estirely recovered from the excitement of the previous night, and, surrounded by her three little toddlers and a group of female neighbors, she talked composedly on her experience with Mrs. Roberts, her mosquito bar and cheese cloth spocks and of the medium's son-in-law.

"The story in the morning papers is wrong in one particular," she said. "It says Mr. Mahan introduced my hunband to the Roberts woman. He did not; it was a man mamed Bernsloff who did it. Mahan was the first one that put spiritualism into George's head after he get over the operation performed on him about a year ago for appendicits. I think Bernsloff lives somewhere on Hickory street, and he it was who induced George to get the medium to prescribe for him.

"I attended four circles before I got the woman to my house and made the exposure of her last night. When she began to dance the baby spirit over the floor I knew I had her. I made a dive for the cabinet and grabbed her tight and fast around the waist. She tried to shake me off and my arm is black and blue where Jackman or Clements, her son-in-law, struck if with his fist and pinched it. But my frands were quick in lightling their matches and Mr. Colesworth turned on the lamp and the fig was up. Mme. Roberts didn't look a bit pretty standing up there with no ahoes and with only one garment of and her atriped hair a-hanging down her back. The old hag owned up that she was a fraud hefore everybody.

"She tried after she had got her clothes on and just before the policemen took her away, to get at my poor, weak husband again. She begged to see him, saying she wanted to tell him she was a fraud and had been deceiving him all these months. Finally she got hold of his hand and began to tell him that it was the spirits who had pulled her clothes and shoes off in order to humble her because she had disobeyed their ord orders in holding a seance in my house, but I cut her off short, pulled my husband away and shoved the woman toward the door."

When seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday morning Mrs. Roberts was in a very complacent frame of mind:
She is aboud 50 years of age, of medium height and weight, and has regular features and an expression of intelligence.

"This is all a mistake," said Mrs. Roberts, emphatically. "It was an unwarranted assault, for which I can assign no reason. I have been a medium all my life. I never advertise, but sometimes I hold seances for the benefit of those who enjoy such manifestations, and accept money when to is offered.

"The performance Sunday night was ganuine. I did not disrobe, and I did not have on cheese cloth or a white robe or anything else except my street clothes. I took my audience to be ladies and gentlemen, yet they jumped on me and tore my clothing from me after dragging me from behind the curtain, and one man struck me squarely in the face with his fist.

"The report that I confessed to being a fraud is false. I never gave Mr. Walters medicine of any kind. The idea is absurd. I am no physician. I advised him to keep away from seances, as he was not strong; yet his wife." Ited me to hold a seance at their house.

"Mr. Walters himself suggested that a collection be taken up, and each man present gave 50 cents. I considered myself the guest of the evening and had nothing to say concerning the amount. After my arrest the money was refunded."

"Manager" Jackman said: "Those people were mistaken. My mother gave them a genuine manifestation, and they assaulted her without reason and tore her clothing from her. I saw three or four spirits in the room, and that ought to be enough for any man at one time. I think I know what the motive for the assault was, and will tell it when the proper time comes."

A friend of Mr. Walters called at the warrant office Monday morning and asked for a warrant for obtaining money under false pretenses, but it was refused on the ground that the perso erts to come to her house ing, where she could give a of the mysterious force her for the entertainment of a few friends. Cepted.

The light was turned down very low at the same of the parlor, and when everything was in readiness Mrs. Roberts retired into the trade off consciousness and get into the trade of the spirits.

Archbishop Kenrick's Remains Lying in State at the Cathedral.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICE.

A Miscreant Filled the Church With Cayenne Pepper and Nearly Caused a Panic.

All day streams of people filed through the heavily-draped portals of the old Cathedral to view the remains of Archbishop Kenrick. The visitors were not all of the dead prelate's faith, but they were reverently curious to see for the last time all that was human of the great and good prelate.

Details of police kept the crowd in order as they entered the church and members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society formed them in single file and escorbed them around the catafalque in orderly manner.

From 9 o'clook until 1 a detail of sixteen cadets from Co.'s C and D of the St. Louis University, under command of Lieuts, Light-holder and Denvir, kept watch. In the after noon they were relieved by a second detach-ment under Capt. Straat and Lieut. Ken-by the presence of death fill the ancient edifice.

There has been no change in the funeral arrangements except that beside the seats reserved for the clergy provision will be made for Archbishop Kenrick's family connections, his faithful valet, Tom Franklin, a few public officials and the members of the Catholic Orphan and Calvary Cemetery Boards.

A detail of forty police will be stationed in and out of the church to preserve order during the services Wednesday.

The ceremonies of removing the body from the archiepiscopal residence to the Cathedral were very simple. There was a great throng at the house all day and as the time of the removal drew near the doors were closed and the people filled the sidewalks for a hundred feet up and down the boile-vard.

At 12:45 o'clock the hearse reached the house. Archbishop Kain at once began the prayers for the dead. Assisted by Rev.
Fr. Bronsgeest, S. J., of St. Xavier's
Church, and three acolytes, he pronounced the absolution. Then the pall bearers, valle Reyburn, John F. Lee, Julius L. Foy,
Frank D. Hirschberg. Pierre Chouteau,
Francis A. Drew, Theophile Papin, Jr., and Edward Walsh, Jr., took charge of the coffin: The Hd was adjusted and the body moved from the parlor to the hearse. The crowd parted without disorder. Archbishop Kain followed immediately after the coffin.

from his carriage four poncement were required to clear a passage for him through the throng.

The coffin was slowly carried up the center alste and deposited on the catafalque immediately without the sanctuary rail.

Archbishop Kain, who had entered the sanctuary and donned his cape and mitre, advanced to the altar railing, attended by Fr. Coyle, and repeated the service performed at the house. He then announced to the crowd in the church that they would be permitted to come forward and view the remains and that the ushers would see that they were moved in orderly manner.

Owing to the size of the throng it was some time before order could be established, but within half an hour the people were moving quietly up one side of the center alise, passed the remains and then out by another way.

Fully 1500 people, it is estimated.

Fully 15,000 people, it is estimated, filed past the coffin while the church was open Sunday.

During the evening while the church was crowded some miscreant scattered cayenne peopler up and down the center aisle where the people were passing. The tread of many feet soon raised dust and in a few moments every one in the church was sneezing violently, the congregation became alarmed and nearly stampeded. It required great coolness on the part of the ushers to prevent the people rushing pell mell from the church. Many suffered severely, some were choked by the odor and others experienced severe pains in their eyes from the irritating dust.

After the church was cleared the doors and windows were thrown open, but it was sometime before the offensive fumes cleared away.

Night Chief Kiely was apprised and detailed Detectives Guion and Hatton to work on the case. Other detectives will be on guard from now on to prevent a repetition of the outrage.

Many of the clergy, Catholic and Protestant alike, made reference to the dead Archbishop in their Sunday sermons. In most of the Catholic Churches solemn requiem masses will be sung Tuesday morning. Archbishops Ryan of Philadelphia and Feehan of Chicago will arrive Monday evening. Other members of the hierarchy are expected to reach the city Tuesday. X RAY EXPERIMENTS.

Tubes Made of Lead Glass Permit the Passage of the "Light."

DENVER, Colo., March 9.-Preliminary experiments in X rays conducted by the Rocky Mountain News and the Homeopathic College have disproved the theory advanced that Crooke's tubes made of lead pathic College have disproved the theory advanced that Crocke's tubes made of lead glass would not permit the X rays to pass through the walls of the tube. It being impossible to secure a genuine Crooke's tube, a substitute was made of common lead glass used in incandescent globes. Several negatives were made in a remarkably short time after some unknown change had taken place in the glass structure directly where the cathode and X rays impinge on the glass opposing the aluminum disc. This supposed molecular change took about an hour, after which the rays came forth in such quantities that a perfect negative of the bones of a man's hand was obtained in about five minutes. The current was from an induction coil giving a three inch spark. Other negatives were made to determine the absorbing powers of varities was given an hour's exposure. Development lasted less than fifteen minutes. The results thus far obtained are merely preliminary to extended research, which will be made both with the lead glass tubes and also the genuine Crooke's tubes as soon as they can be obtained.

DURRANT'S LEASE OF LIFE.

Has Time to Study Law and Write His Own History.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 2.—On April 6 next a year will have passed since the murder of Blanche Lamont, and yet Theodore Durrant, who was convicted of her murder last November, is still in the County Jail awaiting the final action of the Supreme Court in the case. Immediately after Durrant's conviction an appeal was taken, but the case has not been presented to the Supreme Court, owing to requests for additional time made by both sides. The last postponement took place 4 week ago, when the prosecution was granted twenty days in which to file a will of exceptions. At the end of this time it is believed that the case will be presented to the Supreme Court, but a decision is not expected for several months. Durrant was sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 21, but the slow manner in which justice is meted out to murderers in this State makes it plain he will not meet his death before the close of this year. Meanwhile the prisoner is spending his time at the County Jail much the same as the rest of the inmates. He has few visitors and devotes much of his time to reading and writing. He has written a history of his life, and lately he is said to have begun the study of law.

Norton had stationed himself near the entrance of the alley in the residence portion of the city, and as little girls were recurning from Sunday school he would expose his person and becken to them to follow him. The children became frightened and ran to Mr. Osborne's house, where they told their story. The gentleman notified the police, who captured Norton on the outskirts of the city, and placed him in the City Jail. He was released on giving up a forfelt of $25 and left the city last night for his home in St. Louis, He is about 60 years old and a skilled engineer, having been sent here by his firm in St. Louis, and received a large salary for his services.

PRINCE ALBERT RADZIWILL An Illustrious Bussian Nobleman Arrives in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Prince Albert NEW YORK, March 3.—Prince Albert Radziwill was a saloon passenger on the American liner St. Louis, which arrived here on Saturday from Southampton.

Of all the illustrious foreigners who have visited the United States in recent years there is none who occupies a higher rank or is possessed of a grander lineage than Prince Albert, who, if he desires, may tack on to his name the title of Duke of Nieswiez, Duke of Olyka and many others, in addition to which his family occupies by right of birth seats in the Houses of Lords of Prussia, Saxony, Austria and Hungary, besides holding offices of the highest dignity at the Court of Russia, The Radziwills once enjoyed sovereign rank in Lithuania and Poland, and even to this day are regarded as being of sufficient importance to admit of members of the family marrying Princes and Princesses of royal and reigning houses. Prince Albert belongs to the Russian branch of his house, his father being Prince Machias, one of the few knights of the Order of Malta in the Muscovite Empire, while his mother is the once beautiful Polish Countess, Hedwig Krasinka, He holds the rank of Lieutenant in the Russian army, and is about 28 years of age, the eldest of six brothers and sisters.

SHE SHOT THE BEAR.

Pennsylvania Farmer Saved by His Wife's Cool Courage.

HAZELTON, Pa., March 9.—Martin Besant, a farmer living at the foot of Sugar Loaf Mountain, narrowly escaped being torn to pieces by a bear yesterday morning. torn to pieces by a bear yesterday morning. To his wife, Martha, he owes his life. For some time Farmer Besant's barn and sheep pens have been entered periodically, and domestic animals taken. That the thiff was a bear Besant feit convinced, so he set a trap. He dug a pit six feet deep in the path to the barn. This he covered with tree limbs and shruke.

path to the barn. This he covered with tree limbs and shrubs.

Early this morning the Besants were aroused by the screams of a pig. The farmer in getting out to the barn forgot the hole, and tumbled in on top of a black bear and a shoat. The bear made an effort to get out, and Besant tried to help him, but the beast, after getting his forepaws on the edge, could get no further, and there he hung. The shouts of the farmer attracted his wife, and she came to the rescue with a shotgun.

The huge and ugly head sticking over the edge of the hole did not send her into hysterics. She moved for a point of vantage, and placing the barrel of the gun close to bruin's ear sent the contents of both barrels into him. With a death grunt the bear tumbled back upon the farmer. When helped out of the hole Besant fell in a faint at his wife's feet.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., May 11, 1894. "I am suffering, and need your aid. I have terrible pains in both sides, extending down to the front of my limbs and lower part of my back, attended by backache and pains in the back of the neck and ears. The doctors have given me opiates to quiet the pain. I have a very high fever nearly all the time. I am, nervous and cannot stand. My doctor says I must keep in bed. Now I place myself under your care. I am only twenty-one years old and too young to suffer so much." MRS. CHARLES PARKER.

The above letter from Mrs. Parker was received by Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., May 15, and received a prompt reply. The following letter reached Mrs. Pinkham five months later. Note the result: LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Sept. 21.

SALVATION ARMY SECEDERS

nounced by Ballington Booth.

NEW YORK, March 9 .- At Cooper Union last evening an immense audience heard Ballington Booth, the deposed commande of the Salvation Army in America, an ounce the inception of a rival organization har Salvation Army emblem, but the poke badges, but wore no red jackets. Capt. Schneider of the Bowery corps and Maj. Schneider of the Bowery corps and Maj.
Peter Gien were among the officers present, and American flags and pictures of a George Washington were much in evidence. The entrance of Ballington Booth and his wife was attended by a tremendous demonstration. After the enthusiasm had subsided Commander Booth said:
"Mrs. Booth and myself have not come here to-night to allude to the recent sad trouble. It is quite true we have, after mature deliberation, decided to inaugurate a new movement. Could we have ayoided it it would most assuredly have been done on our part.

new movement. Could we have avoided it it would most assuredly have been done on our part.

"Recognizing, as we did, the largest field in the world, and still furthur recognizing that there was room in America for one, two are a hundred—Salvation armies, we have resolved to the best of our ability to win over the artisan community of this country. We wish no strife with the Salvation Army—no strife either literal or verbal.

"There is at least 46 per cent of the wage-earning people of the community who are not identified with any church or place of religious worship. It is these we want to reach and extend to them the love that inspired the Nazarene on the streets of Jerusalem, nearly 1900 years ago.

"Oh, how much bateology and how little heartology there is to-day. Mrs. Booth and myself have within the last few days been reading the history of that great American soldier, George Washington, whose portrait stands on this platform to-night. We thought of him and his goodness of heart and love for Christ as he turned away for a moment from the frightful scenes of Valley Forge and repaired to the woods, where he knelt in prayer to the God of his country. "Whatever be the mission we undertake, it will bear the right direction."

OMAHA, Neb., March 2.—The branch of the Salvation Army, with headquarters in this city, held a meeting last evening, and by a practically unanimous vote decided to remain loyal to the old organization.

Narrow Escape From Death.

Walton had a terrific encounter on Friday with two immense eagles. Finally he succeeded in beating off the eagles with a coal basket, and secured sufficient advantage for the moment to sufficient advantage for the moment to be able to clamber hastily out of the wagon. Then he sought safety in flight. But escape was not so easy. The pursuit was taken up in a moment and the onslaught was continued while he ran madly along the road.

For two miles the chase was continued, the birds giving-flerce and determined battle all the time. At last he reached the only house in that desolate region. Not until he had closed the door on his feathered persecutors and had sunk exhausted from his struggle was the fight relinquished by the eagles.

NANSEN A FATALIST.

and Sure He Would Return.

NEW YORK, March 9.-A London letter tion of Paul Schulze, once at the head of to the Press, dated March 5, says: Nansen the Land Department of the Northern Pa- the explorer, is a deal of a fatalist. He is a seer who is certain of things. He was certain that he would find the pole and certain $1,620,000. Schulze committed suicide a year that he would return to his wife alive. She were married only a short time before he talist, too. She, also, was certain that he would discover the pole and that he would return alive, and was quite willing that he would discover the pole and that he would return alive, and was quite willing that he should go.

Nanisen did not advertise the fact of his great faith, as that would have been hardly politic in the presence of such seers as those of the Royal Geographical Society; but he had it, nevertheless. He showed it in his conversations with the members of the Savage Club, some of whom were inclined to rate him as an egoist, who would have some of his egoism frosen out before he got far North.

The best description of Nansen's person is to say that he is a good-natured, flaxenhaired, blue-eyed giant, who thinks he is superior so dangers. It was in 1838 that Nansen, with three-Norwegians and two Laplanders as compainions, walked across Greenland, seeking information about its geographical and mineral aspects in behalf of a number of European scientific societies. He traveled on the Norwegian ski, which are different from the snow-shoes used in Canada. Snow-shoes are for walking and ski for silding. Ski are made of wood and vary in length from six to ten feet, and it is more difficult to learn to manipulate them than anow-shoes.

Once when there was a fall in the ground Dr. Nansen covered six English miles in flive minutes. Forty miles an hour is no uncommon feat. The doctor thinks the dangers of arctic exploration are somewhat exaggerated, and that any one blessed with a strong constitution and who left alcoholic stimulants alone when struggling against cold, need have little fear of an Arctic journey. He says the best stimulant for righting cold is fatty foods, used with discretion.
